TESTNET SPRING EVENT

Wednesday May 15th, 2019

DIGITAL SPRING

Are we really on the verge of a true revolution or are we fooling ourselves? Does our profession and the way of working change revolutionary or do we already know all this: "we did that already 15 years ago ..."? Real innovations and new visions or very old wine in beautiful new bags? Revolution to return to our familiar old values?

With this theme we would like to hear from you what the digital spring means or will mean. The possibilities are endless!

We call on you to share your vision on this topic with your fellow TestNetters.

Submission Guidelines

- Do you have an interesting, appealing and/or inspiring story for a presentation (45 minutes) or an interactive workshop (1.5 or 3 hours)? Please submit your proposal using the template in Word format that you can download from the TestNet website or scan the QR code on the right.
- The deadline for submitting your proposal is zondag 27 januari 2019.
- TestNet is looking for interesting, non-commercial stories. Commercial presentations, tool promotions and other sessions in which a commercial solution is promoted are not included in the program.
- The members of the events committee each score all entries individually. Their scores are collected and the total score determines whether or not a presentation is selected. In principle, we select one speaker per organization. However, quality is important, so we reserve the right to select multiple speakers from the same company when they achieve the highest scores. This rule applies separately for workshops and presentations. A company and even a speaker can therefore be selected for both a workshop and a presentation when a proposal has been submitted for both components. Whether or not the speaker's organization is a sponsor does not contribute in any way to the selection of the speaker, neither for workshops nor for presentations.
- The program offers room for presentations of 45 minutes in parallel sessions. Half of the presentations are in the afternoon, the other half in the evening. In addition, workshops are also organized, both in the morning (180 minutes) and in the afternoon and evening (90 minutes). You can also submit a proposal for this. Indicate clearly whether you submit a presentation or a workshop. In addition to the presentations and workshops, the events committee will provide interesting keynotes that matches the theme.
- Please send your submission to speakers@testnet.org and use the template in Word format. Make sure all sections are filled in. If you are Dutch speaking, please submit your presentation in Dutch.
- You will receive a confirmation of your submission, so you know that it has arrived correctly.
- It is possible that the events committee wants to see the slides of the presentation in advance or wants to see a demo of the content of the session.
- Before the end of February 2019 the events committee will compose the program and all entrants will be informed whether or not their presentation is part of the program.

We look forward to your proposal!
